are bonafide first year BS Computer Science - Application Development track students currently taking up Website Applications. The course's major requirement is to develop a promotional dynamic website. Another facet of the course is to expose our students to real world business/organizational processes, for them to have a firsthand experience in applying what they have learned inside the classroom.

In this regard, we are respectfully requesting your assistance by allowing our students to visit and conduct data gathering through interviews and/or questionnaires in your company / organization, submit website application proposal and secure approval of the said proposal.

Should this request merit your considerate approval, please be assured that request for non-disclosure and confidentiality of sensitive information shared by your company to our students would be honored.

We are hoping for your appropriate action and favorable response upon this matter. Thank you for your time and attention.

Very truly yours,

Alexander B. Pahayahay, MIT
